State of Gàidhlig in 1891:

A majority of residents still spoke Gàidhlig. With the exception of two older members of the community all speakers were bilingual. The language community was heavily biased towards the older generations but nonetheless some young folk still spoke Gàidhlig. Am Bràigh Mòr (Braemore) and Àth a Chàirn (Achorn) were still hamlets with more than 50 % Gàidhlig-speakers.

Area description:

This district of Gallaibh (Caithness) consists of the area of the once estate of Am Bràigh Mòr (Braemore) and the crofting hamlets of Àth a'Chàirn (Achorn) and Cnoc Ailleadh (Knockally) in the south-western part of the county. Apart from some employment servants, gamekeepers or shepherds on the estate traditional crofting was the dominant means to earn a livelihood in this hill country.

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the "Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies" a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gàidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise fact-sheets are a welcome way to publish some of the "local gems". ### Place of birth and Gàidhlig speaking:

A majority of locally born inhabitants still spoke Gàidhlig. This proportion was of course higher among people who originated from other parts of Gaidhealtachd.

Notes:

- <sup>1</sup> Born either in Latheron or in the parishes of Kildonan (Sutherland), Halkirk, Watten or Wick (all Caithness).
- <sup>2</sup> Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than 50 % Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby<sup>1</sup> (2) in remaining Gaidhealtachd <sup>2</sup>, or (3) elsewhere

Remarks:

- 1. Two inhabitants of the community of Am Bràigh Mòr (Braemore) spoke Gàidhlig but not English: A 61-year-old farmer and a lady aged 82 who lived on private means.
- 2. In original census report terms, the district had a population of 263 persons of all ages. 126 enumerated inhabitants spoke "Gaelic and English" and three persons present at census night spoke no English. This led to an "official" share of Gàidhlig speakers of 47.9 %. This was an under-estimate of 3.3 % compared with the more realistic figures considering only the usually resident population.
