Alba (Scotland): Past and present

State of Gàidhlig in 1891:

Apart from a few women of Lowland descent the overwhelming majority of usually resident persons was Gàidhlig speaking. Apart from the village of Sròn an t-Sithein (Strontian) the language was spoken by virtually everyone in the area.

On the other hand, just nine residents were reported as not speaking English. All monolingual Gàidhlig speakers lived in Àth na h-Eilde (Anaheilt) and they were either very young or belonged to the older generation.

Area description:

The district lies in the eastern part of the parish of Àird nam Murchan (Ardnamurchan) in the northernmost mainland portion of the old county of Earra-Ghaidheal (Argyll). It comprised the crofting township of Àth na h-Eilde (Anaheilt), the hamlet of Sròn an t-Sithein (Strontian) and a handful of remote houses on the eastern shores of Loch Suaineirt (Loch Sunart).

The main occupation in the area was crofting besides some work as shepherds, gamekeepers, or servants for the local estates.

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the “Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies” a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gàidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise fact-sheets are a welcome way to publish some of the “local gems”. Place of birth and Gàidhlig speaking:

Most of the “English only” speakers were born outside the Gaidhealtachd.

Notes:

¹ Born either in Ardnamurchan or in the adjacent parishes of Ardgour, Morvern (both Argyll); Arisaig & Moidart, Kilmallie (all Inverness).

² Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than 50 % Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby¹
(2) in remaining *Gaidhealtachd*², or (3) elsewhere

Remarks:

1. Eight persons were returned as not speaking Gàidhlig. Six of those residents were counted in Sròn an t-Sithein (Strontian). The wife and daughter of the general merchant and in addition the wife and daughter of the hotel keeper belonged to this group as well as the wives of a gamekeeper and a ploughman. All but the ploughman's wife were born in the Lowlands. The remaining “English only” returns came from the factor's wife (originally from Fife) at Laudale House and a 7-year-old girl at Druim na Tòrrain.
2. Just nine residents were reported as not speaking English. All monolingual Gàidhlig speakers lived in Àth na h-Eilde (Anaheilt). They were either very young or belonged to the older generation.
3. In original census report terms, the district had a population of 267 persons of all ages. 231 enumerated inhabitants spoke “Gaelic and English” and 11 were counted as monolingual Gàidhlig speakers. This led to an “official” share of Gàidhlig speakers of 97.0 %. This was an under-estimate of 6.1 %!
