State of Gàidhlig in 1891:

Although a large majority of the usually resident population was Gàidhlig-speaking, the language was already very much a minority issue in the younger generation. No monolingual Gàidhlig speaker was found in the district.

By far the strongest Gàidhlig community was the crofting hamlet of Àsdal (Astle) with 97.5 % of the population speaking the language. On the other hand, people around Caisteal Sgiobail (Skibo Castle) were far less likely to speak Gàidhlig. Many of them of course originated from the Lowlands or further away.

Area description:

The area covered occupies the western part of the parish of Dòrnach (Dornoch) in the county of Cataibh (Sutherland). This rural district had a very diverse settlement structure with small crofting communities like Àsdal (Astle) or An Clais Mòr (Clashmore) living side by side with the higher society of Sgiobal (Skibo) with its castle and extensive private grounds.

Accordingly, the occupations of most residents were either connected with the estate or with their status of crofters living on poor soils in the “backyard” of the castle.

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the “Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies” a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gàidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise factsheets are a welcome way to publish some of the “local gems”. ## Place of birth and Gàidhlig speaking:

A significant majority of locally born residents spoke Gàidhlig. On the other hand, almost no-one born outside the Gaidhealtachd spoke the local language, too.

Notes:

<sup>2</sup> Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than 50 % Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby<sup>1</sup>
(2) in remaining Gaidhealtachd<sup>2</sup>, or (3) elsewhere

Remarks

1. No person was enumerated who did not speak English whether alone or in addition to Gàidhlig.
2. Official census figures reported 124 bilingual (“Gaelic and English”) inhabitants out of a total population of 204 persons (60.8 %). The usually resident population consisted of 122 Gàidhlig-speakers (65.6 %). A comparison with the more realistic statistics of this factsheet reveals that this percentage was an under-estimate of 4.8 % mainly caused by the inclusion of under-three olds and visitors in the official population base.
