Alba (Scotland): Past and present

State of Gàidhlig in 1891:

The language was universally spoken in every household except one. The latter was the farm at Plasterfield House where two Lowlanders had made their home. The strength of the language was perhaps surprisingly high in a place on the doorstep of the largely “anglophile” society of Steòrnabhagh. But perhaps the use of Gàidhlig in the town was much more widespread as some sources would like people to believe.

A significant proportion of residents did not speak English. These monolingual speakers were mainly children below school age or members of the older generation.

Area description:

The townships and farms investigated are part of the northern outskirts of the harbour town of Steòrnabhagh (Stornoway) on the Hebridean island of Leòdhas (Lewis). The locations include the crofting hamlets of Cùl ri Grein (Coulregrein) and Steinis (Steinish) in addition to the (in 1891) farmhouses at Raon na Crèadha (Plasterfield) and Cnoc nan Gobhar (Goathill). Almost everyone in these communities was occupied with crofting or farming at the time.

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the “Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies” a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gàidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise factsheets are a welcome way to publish some of the “local gems”. Place of birth and Gàidhlig speaking:

All inhabitants born in the Gaidhealtachd spoke the traditional language. Roughly 30 % of them did not speak English. The two examples of residents with “no Gaelic” were Lowlanders.

Notes:

¹ Born either in Stornoway or in the adjacent parishes of Lochs, Barvas and Uig (all Ross & Cromarty).

² Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than 50 % Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby¹ (2) in remaining *Gaidhealtachd*², or (3) elsewhere

Remarks:

1. There were just two persons enumerated as “not speaking Gaelic”. It was a farmer and his wife living at Plasterfield House. Both were born in non-Gàidhlig speaking areas in Aberdeenshire and Banffshire respectively.
2. In original census report terms, the enumeration district in total had a population of 191 persons of all ages. 125 enumerated inhabitants spoke “Gaelic and English” and 49 persons were reported as monolingual Gàidhlig speakers. These figures led to an “official” share of Gàidhlig speakers of 91.1 %. A comparison with the more realistic statistics of this factsheet reveals that this percentage was a considerable under-estimate of 7.7 % mainly caused by the inclusion of under-three olds and visitors in the official population base.
