|  | State of Gàidhlig in 1891:  By far the most inhabitants of the area did not speak English. There were only a few bilingual persons enumerated with a handful of incomers who were mainly ignorant of the local language. Except for some young people (see remarks on page 4) the local population was returned as completely Gàidhlig speaking. The two crofting hamlets of Ranais and Grimsiadair were almost entirely monolingual communities. On the other hand, the lighthouse keepers and the gamekeeper at Ȧirinis (Arnish) were lonely outposts of the anglophone world. |

Area description:

The district is part of the parish of Na Lochan (Lochs) in the southeastern part of the island of Leodhas (Lewis). It consists mainly of barren moorland with the crofting townships of Grimsiadair (Grimshader) and Ranais (Ranish) being the only human settlements apart from the lighthouse at Airinis (Arnish). At the time of enumeration local inhabitants were mainly occupied with crofting and fishing.

Age profile: Share of population speaking (1) Gàidhlig, (2) Gäidhlig & English, or (3) no Gäidhlig at all

Area: Leòdhas (Lewis): Ranais, Grimsiadair & Airinis

Notes:

${ }^{1}$ Parishes of Harris (Inverness), Stornoway or Uig (both Ross & Cromarty).
${ }^{2}$ Other parishes in Scotland with more than $50 \%$ Gäidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.
${ }^{3}$ People described as visitors, boarders, lodgers, or other similar terms.
${ }^{4}$ Number of enumerated persons who were (1) older than 2 years of age, who were (2) not deaf & dumb and who (3) did not live only temporarily in the area.

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the "Gäidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies" a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gäidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise factsheets are a welcome way to publish some of the "local gems". More information is provided at http://www.linguae-celticae.de/GLP english.htm .

Place of birth and Gàidhlig speaking:
The vast majority of locally (or nearby) born persons did not speak English. In the case of the few people from the Lowlands or further away the opposite was the case.

Notes:

${ }^{1}$ Born either in Lochs or in the adjacent parishes of Harris (Inverness), Stornoway and Uig (both Ross & Cromarty).
${ }^{2}$ Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than $50 \%$ Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby ${ }^{1}$
(2) in remaining Gaidhealtachd ${ }^{2}$, or (3) elsewhere

Remarks:

1. 41 persons of the usually resident population were reported as not speaking Gàidhlig. Apart from some dubious returns concerning children (see below) these "English only" inhabitants belonged to three households. Two lighthouse keepers at Airinis and the schoolteacher had the "privilege" to lead the only non-Gàidhlig speaking families in the district.
2. A substantial number of young persons aged between 3 and 7 had no " $G$ " or "G&E" marked on their enumeration sheets. 25 of those "non-Gaelic speaking" persons in 1891 were traced in the 1901 census. All were found to be Gàidhlig-speaking and 7 were even monolinguals at this time! Therefore, it cannot be assumed that the low percentage of Gàidhlig-speakers in this age group had been a genuine enumeration result in 1891.
3. In original census report terms, the enumeration district in total had a population of 604 persons of all ages. Just 14 enumerated inhabitants spoke "Gaelic and English" and 519 persons were reported as monolingual Gàidhlig speakers. These figures led to an "official" share of Gàidhlig speakers of $\mathbf{8 8 . 2}$ \%. A comparison with the more realistic statistics of this factsheet reveals that this percentage was a slight under-estimate of $4.2 \%$ mainly caused by the inclusion of under-three olds and visitors in the official population base.
