Area: Ros an Ear (Easter Ross): Baile a'Chnuic

Place of birth and Gäidhlig speaking: Almost all persons born with the Gaidhealtachd spoke the traditional language. English-only speakers were mainly confined to a small group of children and persons from the Lowlands.

Notes:

${ }^{1}$ Born either in Fearn or in the adjacent parishes of Tarbat, Nigg, Tain and Logie Easter (all Ross & Cromarty).
${ }^{2}$ Born in other parishes of Scotland with more than 50 \% Gàidhlig speakers in the 1891 census.

Speakers according to place of birth (1) nearby ${ }^{1}$ (2) in remaining Gaidhealtachd ${ }^{2}$, or (3) elsewhere

Remarks

1. Only eight usually resident persons did not have a "G" or "G&E" mark on their registration sheets. The largest group of these "non-Gaelic" speakers was made up of six children aged between 3 and 12 living in four different households. In addition, a fisherman (originally from Nairnshire) and his wife did not speak Gàidhlig although their children were reported as bilingual.
2. Seven persons did not speak English. The youngest monolingual person was 46 years old - she was a fisherman's wife and was born in Brùra (Brora). Two other monolingual persons came also from a nearby fishing community, i.e. Eurabol (Embo). Another "Gaelic only" return was reported also with a birthplace in the parish of Dòrnach (Dornoch). Many of these older people were "living on parochial relief" according to the census records.
3. Official census figures reported 305 bilingual inhabitants and $\mathbf{1 0}$ monolingual Gàidhlig-speakers out of a total population of 343 persons ( $91.8 \%$ ). The usually resident population on the other hand consisted of 309 Gàidhlig-speakers ( $97.5 \%$ ) including 7 persons "with no Gaelic". The main cause for this difference is the use of the total population as a base for deriving percentages in the official census definition. However, children younger than 3 years of age were not considered in the enumeration of Gàidhlig speakers.

[^0]:    Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:
    The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the "Gäidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies" a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gaiddlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise factsheets are a welcome way to publish some of the "local gems".
