State of Gàidhlig in 1891:

In this location the Gàidhlig language was used by all generations all the time.

Around a third of the populace spoke Gàidhlig alone. This was especially the case in the small village of Inbhir Ìonaid (Inverinate) where almost 50% were monolingual Gàidhlig-speakers.

Area description:

This part of the parish of Cinn t-Sàile (Kintail) is the seafront of the world-famous Caisteal Eilean Donain (Eilean Donan Castle) on the sheltered Loch Dubhthaich (Loch Duich).

At the time of the census the glens and mountains were reigned by landlords and their gamekeepers and shepherds. Near the shore, however, the local crofters tried to make a living from animal husbandry and some coastal fishing. An Dòrnaidh (Dornie) and Inbhir Ìonaid (Inverinate) were the only settlements in this area.

Age profile: Share of population speaking (1) Gàidhlig, (2) Gàidhlig & English, or (3) no Gàidhlig at all

Background of Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Profiles:

The 1891 census was the first such enumeration exercise with an unequivocal language question. After more than 100 years the original census forms are publicly available for detailed analysis. During research concerned with the “Gàidhlig (Scottish Gaelic) Local Studies” a vast number of such local statistics have been gathered about the Gàidhlig speaking population of Scotland in that year. As many of these results could not be included in the reports these concise factsheets are a welcome way to publish some of the “local gems”. ### Remarks:

- Official census figures reported 162 bilingual inhabitants and 68 monolingual Gàidhlig-speakers out of a total population of 260 persons (96.2 %). The usually resident population, however, consisted of 229 Gàidhlig-speakers (97.9 %) including 63 inhabitants “with no English”.
- The nine inhabitants recorded as “having no Gaelic” could be described as follows:
  - An Dòrnaidh: A farmer from Keith in Banffshire, and a 4-year-old niece of the innkeeper who had been born in Glasgow.
  - Inbhir Ìonaid: The family (three members) of a gardener’s family from the anglicised eastern part of the Black Isle. Added to this was a minister’s wife from Linlithgow.
  - Camas Luinge: Two very young children (3 and 4 years of age) of the gamekeeper at Dorusduan Lodge. Last but not least a farmer’s wife who had been born in Peeblesshire.
