“Learning Manx has grounded me physically and connected me emotionally to the island, providing me with a deeper sense of belonging.”

Some thoughts from our politicians Fockle ny ghaa veih nyn politickeyryn

We are delighted to welcome the second joint Manx Language Strategy, and hope that you will join with us in supporting its delivery. Developed by Manx language providers with the support of members of the Manx speaking community, its inclusive message of ‘Manx language for all’ aims to ensure the growth and sustainability of our language over the next ten years and beyond.

Much has been achieved over the past five years, most notably a higher profile for Manx, both nationally and internationally. We are delighted to see public and private sectors embrace the language and know that they are part of its continuing story. Internationally, the Isle of Man has now signed up to Part III of the Council of Europe Charter for Regional or Minority Languages, which is a remarkable show of commitment to the development of the language across different spheres.

The Manx language helps bring a deep sense of identity and creativity into our education systems, builds networks and communities, encourages lifelong learning, and contributes to the economy. It is a unique cultural asset that helps make the Isle of Man a special place to live, with a powerful cultural legacy to enjoy, and something in which we all can take great pride.

This is an exciting time for the Manx language, and we look forward to seeing the community coming together with a sense of cooperation and collaboration to allow it to continue to flourish.

INTRODUCTION

GOAN FOSLEE

It is wonderful to be able to set out the second ever joint Manx Language Strategy, which builds on the first plan and its central ethos of 'Manx language for all'.

Much of our work has been on how the Manx language community can work together most effectively, coordinating activity to avoid duplication, and focusing on the strategic support needed to develop the use of Manx. A lot has changed in five years, too, mainly as a result of successful educational policies which have built upon established grassroots success. We have seen an increase in Government departments, businesses and third sector organisations recognising the impact of the language for their brand identity, using the language in their marketing, and on answering the phone and welcoming people.

Our Interim Report 2017-2021 relating to the first action plan can be found online here: www.learnmanx.com/jeebin

Some highlights include:

- More children raised bilingually, with three playgroups alongside two thriving bilingual nurseries run by Mooinjor Veggey.
- An increase in numbers with 1,842 pupils now attending Manx lessons in school, supported by the Manx Language Unit.
- Celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Bunscoill Ghaelgagh during the 2021-2022 academic year, a school which provides high quality primary education through the medium of Manx.
- Celebrating 120 years of Yn Cheshaght Ghailckagh (Manx Language Society) in 2019.
- Hosting the first ever visit of the Committee of Experts of the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages in April 2018.
- Signing up to Part III of the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages.
- Hosting the ministerial meeting of the British Irish Council IML work sector in 2019.
- Developing a central database of resources 'Stoyr-fys'.
- Academic research into Manx blossoming, with exciting and award-winning doctoral theses and papers, and a post-doc appointment relating to Manx.
- Seeing the development of The Manx Corpus Project, that has started the task of documenting, transcribing and providing side-by-side English translations of the wealth of historical materials for Man, and making them freely available in a searchable format online – around 1.5 million Manx words have already been transcribed.

- Greater connection with online platforms in response to the Covid-19 global pandemic, paving the way for blended learning approaches across all levels of education and learning, particularly adult learners. The re-design of learnmanx.com lies at the heart of this.
- Gaelg21, a month-long celebration of Manx, which took place in summer 2021 and attracted several hundred attendees from complete beginners through to fluent speakers with an engaging programme of events and projects.

Our focus for this ten-year strategy is again on awareness and education, on working together to make the Manx language accessible to everyone, everywhere.

Since the onset of the global pandemic, online classes and meetings have become increasingly popular and have proven to increase accessibility to Manx learners and speakers wherever they find themselves in the world. We always believed that the intrinsic beauty and history of the language itself would have appeal for people beyond our shores, and this is proving to be true.

This strategy supports:

- 2001 Education Act which states that ‘the curriculum shall include the provision for the teaching of Manx Gaelic and the culture and history of the Isle of Man’ (Section 8/2b)
- National Development Strategy for Culture and the Arts 2017-2027
- the place of culture and language within the prestigious UNESCO Biosphere designation, which was confirmed in 2016.
- Isle of Man Government: Our Island Plan, building a secure, vibrant and sustainable future. We acknowledge and advocate the language’s role in encouraging lifelong learning and in creating a distinctive voice for the Island internationally. The Manx language promotes an inclusive sense of identity that fosters community belonging for all who live in or identify with the Isle of Man.

This strategy sees an increased focus on training and advocacy, the development of new resources, and the exploration of ambitions for further education provision. We want to grow the number of speakers and learners of Manx to 5,000 by 2032. We will work to support Part III of the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages, which challenges us to make Manx relevant to all aspects of society and life. Our action plan is a living one, and we will update it and add in new actions as we respond to the language community’s changing needs.

Learning and using Manx not only has a positive impact on personal well-being, but also provides economic benefits, helps to positively promote the Isle of Man internationally and strengthens our cultural and national identity. We are excited and committed to continue to work together to take the development of the Manx language forward in ways that are inclusive and accessible to all.

THE MANX LANGUAGE

YN GHAELG

The Manx language is indigenous to the Isle of Man and its very structure holds the story of our Island. Although it is small in terms of its number of speakers, its impact on worldwide efforts to protect and promote endangered languages is huge. The Isle of Man is now looked to by many as an example of best practice.

As a result of well-organised community-based initiatives coupled with targeted Isle of Man Government support, the language has seen an upsurge of interest in recent years. The Manx language is available for all ages to enjoy, within nurseries, schools, adult classes and the wider community. It is also a unique identifier for the business community and for the Isle of Man as a whole. The Manx language is one of the Island's most important cultural assets; it is an Island success story and something in which we all can take great pride.

MANX LANGUAGE NETWORK MEMBERS

OLTEYNYN

'Jeebin' - The Manx Language Network is a coordinating body which aims to share and develop ideas on the future of the Manx language. The body was established by the Department of Education, Sports and Culture and Culture Vannin in Autumn 2015. Jeebin works together for the best interests of the Manx language, developing ideas and targets within the Manx Language Strategy. It provides an umbrella to promote the language in general, as well as to coordinate community-led events like the Cooish Manx Language Festival.

Jeebin offers opportunities to share work, plans and ideas so there is effective coordination between teams and organisations. This avoids duplication, maximising the benefit for the language. Jeebin can help demonstrate how government and other organisations work together, providing a stronger voice.

Jeebin Members all work for the language in some capacity, but they are also part of the wider Manx language community in a range of voluntary capacities. Manx language charities and voluntary organisations have always been at the heart of revitalising Manx. Jeebin welcomes ideas to feed into the Manx Language Strategy and its action plan and you can do that by contacting any of the Jeebin members or their organisations.
